Panicky Germans Battered From Air By Russian Fliers

Last Nazi Refuge Southwest Of Koenigsberg Ripped To Shreds By Reds

NAZI RETREAT IS CUT OFF BY SEA

By NATALIA RENE
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, March 20.—Through clouds of belching smoke and columns of livid flame towering thousands of feet into the sky, Russian bombers ripped to shreds today the last Nazi refuge southwest of Koenigsberg.

Panicky Germans, huddled along a narrow strip of coast and already hammered by Soviet artillery, were battered relentlessly by crack units of the Red air force, front dispatches reported.

The beach, southwest of besieged Koenigsberg, was described in one dispatch as "a smoking hell" with the enemy hordes breaking under the bombardment but unable to retreat because they were caught with the sea at their backs.

Prepare For Berlin Drive
Red ground forces pressed to within three miles of Braunsberg and Hallegben, the last two centers of resistance below Koenigsberg, in a drive to clean out their northern front and prepare the line for an eventual drive on Berlin.

Along the Stettin bridgehead, more than 100,000 Russians, backed by 1,000 pounding artillery pieces, massed along a front of only 100 miles for a climactic push. A German dispatch asserted, The Red man dispatch asserted, The Red man dispatch asserted.

PA NEWC Observes

According to official records spring begins this evening at 6:38 Eastern Standard Time.

Slippery Rock Creek, Neshannock creek and other streams throughout the county are again at a high stage, due to rains Sunday and Monday. Some of the rural lanes are quite "soaky."

Good business is in prospect for ash and rubbish haulers. Many yards, especially in the North Hill section, have ash piles, awaiting some ash-truck to come along.

An old custom says sweet peas should be planted on Good Friday, March 20. Some people already have seeded onion sets, carrot and lettuce seeds in the earth.

Window display on East Washington showing just a few of the many things made from spring paper is causing quite a bit of interest and comment. The display was arranged by the local girls' scouts.

In case you don't remember, a year ago this morning, local folks awoke to find three inches of snow on the ground, and more fell during the day. There were only three mild days during the month, on one of these the mercury rose to 74 degrees, and on the two others the temperatures were 61 and 68 degrees. The rest of the month was generally cold.

According to Nick Casillo, who keeps a close watch on such things, vegetation is a month ahead of what it was last year; and last year it will be recalled, spring came fairly early.

Daily Weather Report

United States weather statistics for the 24-hour period ending at 9 a. m. today follow:

Attitude Of Russia Will Be Big Factor In War Upon Japan

By CAPTAIN JOHN H. CRAIG
(Written Especially For International News Service)

With Uncle Sam's top-ranking military and naval planners charting the final stages of our war with Japan, it appears that the biggest unknown quantity in the equation is Russia's Marshal Joseph Stalin. What the Soviet chief of state and his Red Army do will unquestionably decide the pattern of the war's concluding phases.

If Russia comes into the war within the next year or 18 months, within the United Nations victory should be fairly speedy and not too costly. If Russia does not come in or postpones her entry until after Japan's military strength has been broken, the Pacific war may yet prove far more expensive and difficult than is generally believed.

Only Land Boundary

Russia is the key to the most effective application of the strategy of total war by the Allies to Japan, because she is the only one of the great United Nations military powers that has a land boundary withers that has a land boundary withers that has a land boundary withers.

Asserts Berlin To Be Defended

NEW YORK, March 20.—(INS)—Lieut. Gen. Bruno von Haeussel, military commander of Berlin, was quoted by the Reich radio today as saying that the "very last" of the struggle will be continued underground as well as in the streets, the broadcast, heard by CBS, quoted the Nazi general as saying.

Italy Based Fliers Hammer At Nazis

MARSHALLING YARDS AT BRUCK, AUSTRIA, BEAR BRUNT OF NIGHT ATTACK FROM AIR
ROME, March 20.—(INS)—RAF heavy bombers returned to Greater Germany last night to strike anew at crippled rail lines on the heels of yesterday's record onslaught by American daylight raiders. Allied headquarters announced today.

Marshalling yards at Bruck, Austria, bore the brunt of the night attack by the Mediterranean-based craft, the communiqué revealed. Covering land action on the Italian front in terse words "confined to patrol clashes," the official statement gave a detailed account of the 15th Air Force's record assaults yesterday.

Enemy Reports Raids On Japan In Third Day

Kobe And Kure Revealed As Targets For Huge Air Raids Of Monday

OVER 1,400 PLANES SHARE IN ATTACKS

By JULIAN HARTT
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

GUAM, March 20.—Coincident with an enemy report that the dramatic American carrier strike against southern Japan was continuing in its third day, America's powerful two-phased air strikes at the enemy homeland today appeared carrying the war into a new phase.

Shortly after Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz confirmed earlier that broadcasts saying that the U. S. carrier aircraft which on Sunday began attacking Japan, continued the assault on Monday, another Tokyo transmission said the planes were "still continuing" their raids early Tuesday.

Continue Attacks

Nimitz, in his regular communiqué, declared that the naval aircraft—estimated by the enemy to number at least 1,400—again struck at Honshu on Monday, selecting as their targets the important cities of Kobe and Kure.

The fighting U. S. Admiral's communiqué provides no additional details of Sunday's strike, which he earlier announced was directed at enemy installations on the southernmost Japanese home island of Kyushu.

In hitting Kobe, Japan's most important port and the empire's sixth largest city, the Yank naval airmen swept over straggling and dive-bombing, while fire undoubtedly still burned from Saturday's assault by upwards of 300 giant Superfortresses.

Kure Is Target

The other target of the American carrier planes was Kure, 200 miles west of Kobe which also is the enemy's most important naval base. Just before Nimitz's communiqué acknowledged that the naval strikes at Japan were made for two days running, the enemy radio was heard blaring out its usual propaganda.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(INS)—Joseph D. Medley, 45-year-old divorcee, was held without bond today after he was returned to Washington and arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Needham C. Turnage.

Medley was brought back to the capital by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents from St. Louis, Mo., where he was arrested Sunday.

In Turnage's office, Medley refused to plead to the Boyer murder charge without consulting an attorney, and the case was adjourned to March 26.

Fleeing Germans Are Bewildered By Third Army Speed

Early Junction Of U. S. Third And Seventh Armies Is Now Being Forecasted

GERMAN PRISONERS INCREASE HOURLY

By LARRY NEWMAN
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE U. S. THIRD ARMY, March 20.—Veteran Third Army tank columns raced through puny Nazi opposition to within nine miles of Mainz today, with headquarters observers predicting an imminent juncture with the Seventh Army to the south and east.

Fleeing German hordes, bewildered by the speed of the Third Army's drive and weakened by the loss from 15,000 to 20,000 prisoners yesterday, retreated in long columns of transport jammed bumper to bumper on the few remaining escape corridors. Overhead hung a dark cloud of Allied warplanes, heaping new destruction on the disorganized enemy columns.

A record total of 8,355 prisoners trudged wearily through captivity cages in the first phases of tabulating the prisoner bag of yesterday, spokesmen for Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton announced.

While the disgruntled Nazis passed into their encampments, out in the field the chase continued.

Iwo Jima Saves Many Fliers And Big U.S. Bombers

PEARL HARBOR, March 20.—(INS)—The value of captured Iwo Jima's airfields as emergency stop-over points for B-29s was graphically pointed out today by Lieut. Holland M. Smith who told correspondents that already about 30 million dollars worth of Superfortresses and hundreds of Supermarine fighters have been saved through American seizure of the island, 750 miles south of Tokyo.

The fleet marine force commander, fresh from participation in the bloody conquest of Iwo, said that many of the planes and crew members would have been lost if the captured airfields had not been available and pointed out that two Japs, about midway between the Japa homeland and Superfort bases in the Marianas, "is a big help to the morale of B-29 crews."

May Be B-29 Base

He hinted, too, that two may be used as a regular B-29 base, with the estimate that the big bombers will be able to carry three times their present bomb-loads flying from closer bases.

The marine leader said that the high casualty figure of 20,000 marines killed, wounded or missing on Iwo was not a surprise.

Yanks Land On Panay Island In Philippines

Japs Are Taken By Surprise And U. S. Forces Suffer Practically No Losses

By FRANK ROBERTSON
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Luzon, March 20.—American forces landed under cover of a heavy bombardment by sea and air forces, stabbed inland on Panay Island of the Philippines today, closing relentlessly on the capital city of Iloilo.

The latest invasion of a Philippine island was, like others in recent weeks, staged by elements of the U. S. Eighth Army under command of Lieut. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger. It was announced by Gen. Douglas MacArthur in his regular communiqué.

Troops Go Ashore
Troops of the 40th division went ashore 14 miles west of Iloilo, on the southern shore of Panay which lies eight miles west of liberated Iloilo across the Visayan sea. The Japs immediately established a beachhead, taking the Japs by surprise and suffering practically no loss.

First Of Five 45,000-Ton Giants Is Launched At Newport News Shipyards Today

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., March 20.—(INS)—The United States Navy's first of five 45,000-ton giants which will augment the navy's air striking power in decisive assaults on the Japanese empire, was launched today at the yards of the Newport News Shipbuilding Company.

The world's largest warship and the biggest vessel ever built in this country, the Midway is armored like a battleship as protection against air or sea attack, will have greater speed than other carriers, and will be able to launch more bomber and fighter planes of a completely new design from her 1,000 foot flight deck.

Because of her tremendous size the Midway was built in a drydock and was launched by derrick before being hauled by tugs into the James river and moved to a pier for completion.

German Retreating In Confusion As American Forces Smash Ahead

LARGE NUMBERS OF NAZIS SURRENDER

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, March 20.—Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's ram-paging Third Army sent its crack armored divisions racing through sagging Nazi lines in a fresh 11-mile advance today, driving to within four miles of Kaiserlautern and inspiring headquarters spokesmen to announce that the annihilation of enemy forces west of the Rhine is imminent.

Battle-tested divisions, both tank and infantry, drew a ring of steel and fire around besieged Kaiserlautern and slammed to within nine miles of Mainz as Nazi opposition became almost non-existent.

Retreat In Confusion

While the fleeing enemy hordes were retreating in confusion along roads jammed bumper to bumper with vehicles which were under incessant aerial attack, official spokesmen at supreme headquarters announced tersely that "the destruction of the German army west of the Rhine is on the verge of accomplishment."

An estimated 35,000 or more Germans were taken prisoner by the converging U. S. Third and Seventh armies in the last six days and the toll mounted hourly as the two armies, swinging nearer together, Patton sent his army wheeling around the Saar-Moselle-Rhine triangle while Lieut. Gen. Alexander M. Patch breached the Siegfried line defenses along a wide front.

Nazi Resistance To Patton's Drive Is Ineffectual

By JOHN E. LEF
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

BAD KREUZNACH, Germany, March 20.—There was growing confusion among the Germans today as Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army forces sliced deeper into the enemy rear area west of the Rhine, advancing so quickly the Nazis are able to make only conclusive, ineffectual attempts to resist.

The Bad Kreuznach sector, beyond which the American Fourth Armored Division is now pushing, closely followed by mop-up elements of the Fifth and 9th Infantry Divisions—is a remarkable example of what happens when a blow is struck with such stunning suddenness and force that the enemy is caught completely off balance.

Many of the pledge cards were taken by the boys on the first day, but there are many more available for the team workers and those wanting additional cards can secure them from Harold Pears at the Y.

The next report meeting of the teams in the Boy's Division will be on Saturday morning, March 24, and a good report is anticipated.

Inland, the Americans reached Corodina, while other elements separated seven miles eastward along the coast.

The Malanau landings, MacArthur said, resulted in "further securing the southern approaches to Zamboanga." On Mindanao, meanwhile, other eighth army forces "steadily expanded" their holdings, moving relentlessly ahead with tank and air support above San Roque and Pansan.

Japs Abandon 829 Dead

In their advance, the Yanks on Mindanao came across 829 enemy dead which the Japs had abandoned in their hasty retreat.

Sixth division elements on the north flank beat back an enemy counter-attack southwest of Mount Bantangan, according to MacArthur who also revealed that recent mop-up operations by the 38th division in the Zamboanga region killed 2,654 more Japs.

Continuation of the aerial neutralization of Pormosa, 250 miles north of Luzon, reached a new peak on Saturday when the big U. S. Liberators unloaded 249 more tons of bombs on four vital Jap airbases in the vicinity of Taihoku.

This vast host would need to have bases from which to start, communications lines on which to travel and favorable terrain over which to approach vital enemy objectives which should be within reasonable distances. That is where Russia comes in.

In Best Position
Russia is the only one of the United Nations big three that is in a position to slug it out with Japan on a better than even basis in a land war because she has been preparing for just that kind of a conflict since the Russo-Japanese war of more than 40 years ago.

In front of them, separated by a few hundred miles of Manchurian plain, are Japan's vital citadels in Manchukuo and Korea, the fall of which would open up the Sea of Japan and bode Nippon's "soft underbelly" to American sea and air attack.

Nobody doubts that if it comes to a land attack on Japan, Russia is best situated of all the allies to stage the thrust. The question is whether or not Marshal Stalin intends to swing his Sunday punch. Perhaps the heads of allied governments know about this, but if they do no hint has reached the public. April 25th next is a date to watch. If Russia does not abrogate her peace pact with Japan then, it will run until 1951.

launched a number of sporadic attacks and ambushes (trying to cut the American supply lines) but failed completely. Some ambushes themselves have been ambushed and wiped out.

Driving up the rutted roads in the wake of the Fourth Division's advance, you can see hundreds of foreign laborers, now liberated, trudging to the rear, carrying their possessions on their backs but smiling with joy despite their fatigue.

Among them are some Hindus, captured by the Germans at Kasserine Pass in February 1943. There are also some Mongolians among the lot.

Soldiers Don Civilian Clothes

In the overrun towns you can see young Germans, obviously soldiers, who hurriedly donned civilian clothes and now slyly watch the Americans pass by. The sight of our roaring armor has taken all the fight out of them.

In some towns you can see large batches of German prisoners being heaped aboard army trucks for transportation to the rear, their eyes downcast under the curious, worried, reproachful gaze of civilians.

With the exception of one bazooka-shooting civilian at Bad Kreuznach, who was machine-gunned to death, the civilian attitude so far has been sheep-like.

Every attempt to halt the surge of Gen. Patton's armored troops seemed at the moment to be doomed before it gets started.

were said to be in the southern edge of Altdamm, four miles east of the big Baltic port, already blazing from air and land bombardment.

Late dispatches reported the Red air blows have cut rail connections between Berlin and Stettin, the Baltic outlet, with the Nazis hurrying fresh tank divisions into the Altdamm fighting in a futile attempt to check the Soviet offensive.

Nazis Losses High

The Soviet communiqué reported that the Germans had paid a high price for the defense of Kolberg, 65 miles northeast of Stettin, which fell to the Russians yesterday. The communiqué said that the Germans lost 8,000 men killed and 6,000 captured.

Par to the south, Red army forces were massing on the Hron river in Czechoslovakia, apparently in preparation to assault the German defense line standing between the Soviets and the way to the Bratislava gap and Vienna. A Russian thrust from the Czechoslovak railway junction of Zvolen on the Hron appeared to be the beginning of a general flare-up on the sector stretching from Czechoslovakia through Hungary to the Yugoslav border.

The battle for Breslau in Silesia still raged, with the Germans apparently intending to carry out their vow to fight to the last man.

The German DNB agency said that in upper Silesia the Russians had succeeded in broadening their bridgehead over the Oder north of Ratibor.

YANKS WITHIN FOUR MILES OF KAISERLANTERN

heavy from the aerial pounding dealt their men and material on the few remaining escape highways, described as choked with military traffic streaming toward the Rhine.

Realize Peril

The Germans apparently realize their peril, a spokesman at Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters said, and are making vast preparations for a withdrawal to the Rhine. But whether the Nazis still have time to escape is problematical.

The Berlin radio admitted there had been a German withdrawal west of the Rhine before the combined onslaught of the U. S. Third and Seventh armies, claiming Nazi rear-guards had held up Yank spearheads while they moved the bulk of their troops and equipment into the westward.

Race Through Lines

Farther north the 10th Armored Division raced through the collapsing German lines in the Saar basin for seven miles and reached a point only four miles northwest of the key city of Kaiserlautern.

Simultaneously the 80th Infantry Division stormed through terrific gains of 15 miles and at last reports were only seven miles west of Kaiserlautern.

The veteran Fourth Armored Division, which whipped northward after crossing the Nahe river, carved out fresh gains of four miles to seize positions only nine miles from the vital Rhine city of Mainz where the Nazis destroyed a four-lane bridge across the river to prevent its falling into the hands of the advancing Yanks.

Capture Lauterbourg

Farther south the First Army, which with the U. S. Seventh Army had all day a few German stragglers from northeastern France, unhinged the lower end of the Siegfried line with the capture of Lauterbourg by the Third Algerian division.

While the U. S. Third Army gains of up to 15 miles overrunning between 40 and 45 more German towns and throwing a new armored pincer around thousands of trapped Germans in the region of Kirm, the U. S. First Army made new gains of two and one-half miles which expanded their Remagen bridgehead to almost 150 square miles.

First Army forces encountered stiffening opposition as they advanced eastward, the Colonne-Flankung superhighway and made gains which carried them a total of eight miles east of Homburg.

Pierce Siegfried Line

The Seventh Army's 63rd Division, fighting five miles east of Saarbrücken, cleared a vicious cluster of Nazi pillboxes in a slashing advance which tore a gaping hole in the Siegfried line's outer defenses.

On their right flank the 45th Division, knocked out 20 pill boxes after capturing Alschbach and breached the westwall for one-quarter of a mile. At the same time the Third Division, battling in the area southwest of Zweibrücken, advanced a mile beyond Mittelbach and broke through two layers of Siegfried defenses.

To the south the 42nd Division fought its way into the main belt of the westwall in the Harde mountains while eight miles to the east of them the 103rd Division, attacking the Germans near Schleibach, also jabbed into the Siegfried line.

The 36th Division crashed into Wissembourg, left troops behind to clear pockets of resistance, and swept another three miles toward the Rhine.

Earlier the Swiss radio said French forces which made their first crossing into the Reich had swept beyond Lauterbourg and were within six miles of the key city of Karlsruhe.

Report French Advance

While the Germans lost all hope of maintaining their hold on the Saar basin, the Nazi radio reported that the British Second Army had completed preparations for a storming across the Lower Rhine in the area between Anheim and Emmeich.

The Saar highways leading to the Rhine were jammed with Nazi traffic provided a field day for Allied tactical air forces which rained tons of bombs and strafed the disorganized streams of enemy traffic, destroying more than 2,500 vehicles in 36 hours.

Place Nazi Losses at 35,000

Estimates at Third Army headquarters placed Nazi losses at 35,000 in killed, wounded and captured as Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's new offensive boared into its seventh day and many hundreds of other German captives are still at the front awaiting removal to cages in the rear.

Yesterday the rampaging Third Army captured 11 more towns, cleared or overrun an estimated 25 more and jabbed its way into another four where desperate enemy garrisons retired into pillboxes for a suicide stand.

One entire battalion of Nazi artillery was captured with its guns and men intact behind the Siegfried switch line in the area 19 miles east of Metz.

The Germans gave ground stubbornly, fighting from oversized pillboxes. The 45th Division, fighting in the region of Neiderwurzbach between Zweibrücken and Saarbrücken, captured one pillbox which yielded 90 prisoners.

boasts. After saying that as many as 1400 U. S. plane staged the attacks Tokyo radio claimed that damage was inflicted on the American warship-making task force 58 which only last month staged a similar assault to cover the Marine invasion of Iwo Jima.

However, the enemy broadcaster added that the Yanks repaired their damages "at sea" and resumed the assault.

When barbed wire was first introduced in the British Isles and America there was strong objection to it on humanitarian grounds.

The Tenth Armored Division, veteran task force now slashing toward Kaiserlautern, gained seven more miles and drove to within four miles of that city from the northwest. The same time the cooperating 80th Infantry Division climaxed an unprecedented 15-mile drive by coming within seven miles of Kaiserlautern.

With Kaiserlautern under pressure from the northwest and west, the hard-hitting Fourth Armored Division slashed northward to the vicinity of Bubenheim, nine miles southwest of Mainz.

In the Saar, the areas surrounding Saarbrücken where infantry tangled for three and a half months, finally were cleared out by the Sixth Division.

Planked by the swift armored columns, German defenders of the Westwall now are trying frantically to extricate themselves, but face a death trap when they retreat, as they must, through the narrowing corridor now separating the Seventh and Third armies, about 35 miles from the Rhine.

The three armored divisions drives toward Kaiserlautern have flanked the entire Siegfried line and the Hunsbrück switch line and the linkup of the Third and Seventh armies somewhere near the Rhine should come soon.

The Eleventh Armored Division, which joined with another armored outfit yesterday 18 miles northwest of Kaiserlautern to form a giant pocket, took an estimated 3,700 prisoners, while the Ninety-fourth Division advancing along the southwestern shoulder of the pocket due east of Saarburg netted 3,200 Nazis.

ARMORED U. S. UNITS PLUNGING ON TOWARD VITAL CITY OF MAINZ

westwall, Mainz, Saarbrücken, Karlsruhe and Kaiserlautern are all gravely endangered and within a matter of days at most the last formidable fortified cities protecting the central German plain and the mountain roads of Bavaria from attack will have been stripped bodily out of the Nazi defense system.

Nearly 20,000 Prisoners In Day

Between 15,000 and 20,000 German troops—the best part of two full divisions—were captured by Patton's third army yesterday. This broke all allied records for seizure of enemy prisoners.

At the headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, an official

YOUTH HELD FOR TAKING AUTO

Ellwood City police reported to Chief of Police Robert D. Hanna today they had in custody a youth who gave the name of John W. McFarland, 416 West Washington street. They stated that he had in his possession an auto reported taken from the Castle garage here last night. The chief proposed to return the boy to the city today. The owner has had his car returned by police.

Desperate efforts were being made by the fast-moving American armies to seal off all remaining escape routes. Thousands of Nazis got away before a trap was sprung in the Saar-Moselle-Nahe triangle, leaving only 2,000 there to fall into allied hands.

But a total of 80,000 Germans still were believed in danger on the western side of the Rhine and the fluid battle developed into a dramatic race for the river bank. There were indications that Nazi military authorities at Mainz at least had decided to leave their compatriots on the western bank to allied mercy.

FAITH

The following item was published in the "Times-Herald", Washington, D. C., on March 15, 1945:

WARTIME IS WASTEFUL
It's a great satisfaction to read the letters published now and then protesting the foolish "daylight saving time". Why didn't they call it "fuel-wasting time"?

This getting up and going out in the pitch dark, benefits none, but harms all. Oh, yes, I know there's a war going on. But now does it help, to lower our physical resistance, waste electricity and take a chance of being molested by criminals?

Standing in the cold during the dark early morning, only helps multiply the records of sick leave and loss of man-hours. May some humane soul of influence be prompted to act in behalf of the WEARY WORKER.

TWO OF SAME NAME KILLED

SHARON, Pa., March 20.—(INS)—The name of Joseph Argenziano today for the second time was on the Sharon's World War II list of hero dead.

Last August, Joseph 26, was killed in the Pacific Theater and today his cousin, Joseph, 22, was reported fatally wounded in action in Germany.

The elder Joseph was adopted by the younger Joseph's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrea Argenziano after his own family had returned to Italy.

MARRIED IN FUNERAL HOME

SHARON, Pa., March 20.—(INS)—Additional proof that love is blind was offered today by Mrs. William McGrath of Sharon, who declared that a couple was married in her husband's funeral home and left still believing they were at a nearby Methodist church.

Miss Margaret Begalia of Warren, O., and Ralph Gram, Niles, O., appeared at the chapel and told Mrs. McGrath they wanted to be married, so she called the Rev. E. W. Chittester, pastor of the church, who promptly performed the nuptials, she said.

PHILADELPHIA—Corbett Bishop, 38, refused to eat or walk for a month after he was nabbed by police following his escape from a camp for conscientious objectors in Michigan. He didn't resist force feeding, however, or balk at the idea of being carried everywhere.

LANCASTER—Seeing a line he thought ended at a cigarette counter, a dignified man joined the queue only to learn a half-hour later that the end of the line was in the local income tax bureau.

ROSCOE—State and federal officials will have to act faster than the Monongahela river or the little municipality of Roscoe will be washed away. Almost daily, the river takes a bite from the high ground on which the town is built.

NORRISTOWN—Thomas Goodman, smelled smoke as he drove down the street so he stopped at a fire station and asked for aid in locating the blaze. They did. Ruas, apparently set afire by a cigarette, were ablaze in the rear trunk.

WASHINGTON CALLING

by MARQUIS CHILDS

Cologne Picture Of Full Destruction

COLOGNE, March 20.—You can not conceive the meaning of complete destruction until you see this city.

Here is a city that had a population of about 500,000, and there is not one section that has not been devastated. It is a perfect illustration of what modern war means—total destruction, with the survivors driven to existence in cellars and caves.

The area of total destruction is but at more than 3,000 acres. Civilian casualties from the beginning of the first bombings up to and including the fall of the city, are estimated roughly at 125,000. The same number may still be living in cellars and shelters beneath the ruins.

But figures mean little and cannot convey the sense of utter desolation that comes out of the gray skeleton of what was once a flourishing, handsome city. Particularly at nightfall, with the silence broken by any human sound, it is weird and frightening.

Considering the magnitude of the task, it seems to me that the Allied Military Government has made an excellent beginning. Forty-two officers and 26 enlisted men—Americans, since this is an American sector—are working to restore life to the city. The commanding officer is Lieutenant Colonel John K. Patterson of Riverside, Cal. His two chief assistants are Major Edwin Tribble of Washington, D. C. and Major Everett M. Ross of Phoenix, Ariz.

Patterson has followed the rule that no member of the Nazi party shall have any part in the administration set up by AMG. This complicates the task at the outset, since most of the German staff members, but Patterson believes it is the only policy that makes sense for the long pull. Of course, all the Germans interviewed say they were not in sympathy with the Nazis and were forced to join the party in order to live.

AMG headquarters were established in a building less damaged than most, and after the dead were cleared from the streets, the AMG staff began getting a police force organized, a telephone system set up, and soup kitchens going.

Lieutenant Colonel Robbins P. Howell, formerly with the Bell Telephone Company in New York, who is in charge of communications for the AMG staff, found two local telephone stations intact. The local engineers had been instructed by fleeing Nazi bigwigs to destroy the installations and then follow the army across the Rhine, but they stayed at the post.

Under AMG policy, no American food is being used to feed the Germans. Fairly large stores of food were found in the city, and this is being distributed by Germans under American direction.

Civilians you see on the streets look surprisingly respectable and fit. Through two and a half years of bombing, they have become adjusted to cellar existence.

The miracle is that even a fraction of the city's former population can live in the ruins. You see them huddling possessions in small carts through the streets. Some still have bicycles.

With the Wehrmacht still in possession of the suburbs on the other bank of the Rhine, our artillery shells whistle overhead, and German artillery and mortar shells fall sporadically in the city. Standing on the steps of the cathedral, you can look across the Rhine, which is narrow here, to strong points held by the enemy.

Sight-seers in and out of the great church, which is almost roofless. They seem unaware of occasional snipers' bullets and the mortar shells loomed in from across the river.

One of the greatest architectural losses of the city was destroyed: Saint Gertrude's Church. It received a direct artillery hit.

Services are still held in the crypt below. I attended mass there early Sunday morning. About a hundred Germans were present in the cave-like vault, which was illuminated by only three candles. From the rear of the crypt, the priest was a dark form against the single candle on the altar, but his voice came out strong and clear in a sermon on how the people must accept defeat.

Those seated on the stiff-backed wooden pews were mostly old men or women. As they came in from outside, they groped down the steps into the darkness of the crypt, feeling their way haltingly to seats.

Outside, a gray, cold mist off the Rhine had been to lift a little. Yet the looming spires of the cathedral down at the end of the street were still shrouded.

Stirrings of life are very faint in this ruin of the past.

Just Folks

He was so young and fair,
So fine, all through;
Born with the will to dare
And the wish to do.

High were the dreams he had
For his years to be;
But for power one man went mad,
Now, his victim, he!

The world one man defied,
With his legions great,
And the boy put his dreams aside,
Saying: "These can wait!"

German Reparations Bring Up Problems

WASHINGTON, March 20. SO FAR as Germany is concerned, the most convincing proof that she is a completely beaten nation lies in the unobtrusive appointment by the Allies of a reparations commission, shortly to meet in Moscow.

There is somehow more finality about that than any other Yalta announcement.

WHEN THEY begin to compute the significance of the reparations commission, the Allies will find it difficult to convince them—if the fact is permitted to get through—that there is no hope left. In the language of the old circus man, "the monkey's dead and the show's over."

NEVERTHELESS, creation of a reparations commission and plans for its early meeting raise a number of interesting questions to which no one appears to have the answers.

For example, it is natural to ask how such a commission can do even "exploratory" and advisory work without far more definite knowledge than is now available.

First, it would seem that before reparations can be considered either as to "extent" or "character," we must make up our minds exactly what we are going to do with her.

Until we know what kind of Germany there will be when the fighting is over, even the beginnings of the reparations problems cannot be intelligently dealt with.

NOBODY knows anything about this Germany. Nobody knows what we will find when we get in. It is impossible to tell now whether the whole German economic structure will be wrecked or if not wrecked, whether we intend to permit it to rebuild. And if we are going to permit industrial Germany to get on her feet, the question is: what and with what? Also, it is hard to see how we can permit her to rebuild on a policy of complete demilitarization of Germany with its rebuilding. And there are other points equally baffling. About all of them there is confusion.

The only sure thing about reparations is that they are to be "in kind"—that is, raw and manufactured materials and not in money. The futility of demanding money reparations was proven last time. As to reparations "in kind," obviously these can only be paid by an industrially productive Germany. We do not know how much we want that kind of Germany, whether, even if we want it, that kind of Germany will be possible for a long time, or whether it ever will be possible unless we help make it so.

NONE of these things will be determined until the war is over. Until then, it seems absurd to consider the "extent and character" of reparations. Until we know the capacity of Germany to produce, nothing can be done. That the commission is to meet in Moscow is construed generally as meaning that Russia proposes, because of the damage inflicted upon her by the Germans, to claim the larger share of reparations. But Russia will not be the only one with a large bill. The British have suffered very heavily and have justification for a big claim. So have all the liberated nations: France, Holland, Denmark, Belgium, Poland and Norway.

Hitler running short of oil—report, and boy, those Rhine and Oder river waters trouble!

One baseball fan laments that his favorite club not only doesn't look like a pennant contender—it doesn't look like a baseball team period.

Good Taste

By FRANK R. KENT

IF THERE are reparations, all of these have got to be recognized and paid. The question arises as to how even a rebuilt industrial Germany is going to meet the demands.

Also, how industrial production will be affected by the proposal (spoken favorably of by Mr. Roosevelt, of taking to Russia) a million Germans to rebuild the Soviet's devastated cities. Also if Russia is permitted to profit through the "slave-labor" device, would not the other damaged nations be proportionately entitled to similar reparations in conscripted manpower? Perhaps Mr. B. M. Baruch, who is going to England for the President's "economic mission," may shed some light on these things. However, the problems loom ahead in this reparations business seem very grave, indeed. Certainly, not even a beginning can be made until first, the facts about the post-war German economic machine are known, second, until our own minds have been made up as to postwar policy toward a prostrate Germany.

CONSIDERING these things, Secretary of State Stettinius seems a trifle overoptimistic when he declares his confidence that the reparations commission, on which we are represented by Dr. Isador Lupin, will shortly "develop a sound program of reparations." If it can do that before the facts about the German economic machine are known, and if it will have performed a miracle, incidentally, through Dr. Lubin's appointment as our reparations representative was announced by Secretary Stettinius. He was not selected by Mr. Stettinius. Like many other appointments announced by Mr. Stettinius, he was picked by someone else. In this case, someone else appears to be Mr. Harry Hopkins, to whom Dr. Lubin is close and who, it is said, made him statistician to the combined chiefs of staff.

Mrs. Roosevelt's Mink Coat Talked About
Racy Meeting Is Held With Lady Reporters
Liberated Nations Have War Waif Problem

By HELEN ESSARY
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, March 20.—No meeting in all the Americas could have been as much fun as Mrs. Roosevelt's meeting with the lady reporters. If you could have heard the things we talked about! And the way we talked about the things we talked about! Merely me! There was a racy morning! Its story would have sent gentlemen reporters racing to their press wires had they been able to crash the "no men admitted" rule.

I can't really tell which feature of the meeting I enjoyed most. Let me see now—was it the casual bit about the crown "some gentleman at the Casablanca conference sent me. I can't remember his name. But it was a terribly heavy crown," reminisced Mrs. Roosevelt. "Columbia is lovely. Oh no indeed. The crown was of gold and precious stones. I didn't expect it to see what precious stones they were. I decided not to wear the crown. So I had it placed in the library at Hyde Park. For exhibition, naturally."

Instantly I was flashed into my head and into the head of every other newspaper woman present. I am sure, the story, "Mrs. Roosevelt (Continued on Next Page)

LOOKING AT LIFE
By ERICH BRANDEIS

Dean C. Brewer, 76, and Lavinia Allen, 68, of Augusta, Me., were married in Portsmouth, N. H., a few days ago.

Fifty years ago Dean and Lavinia were sweethearts in Burts Corner, New Brunswick, but somehow, like so many young lovers, the romance flickered out and the two drifted apart.

Last summer Brewer, who never married, took a trip to the scenes of his childhood and met the still sixteen-year-old granddaughter of his former sweetheart, who told him that her grandmother was now a widow, living in Augusta.

Brewer visited the Maine capital last Christmas, looked up his "girl friend" and fell in love with her all over again. She returned the sentiment—and marriage followed.

When interviewed about "guesses" that maybe they had been in love all the time anyway and that their belated marriage was something that should have taken place half a century ago.

I clipped the story out of my paper and sent it to a piece of mine. She is twenty-two and quite in love with a young lieutenant who proposed to her and wants to get married right away.

She is thinking very seriously of marrying him, but there's a hitch. Fifty years ago, when she was seventeen, she was "crazy in love" with a boy and they were going to get married.

But somehow, just like in the case of Dean and Lavinia, the romance faded. He went away and she hasn't heard from him in years.

But every so often she thinks of him. And whenever she meets other fellows she instinctively compares them with the chap who was her ideal man fifty years ago.

As long as I am not mentioning her name I don't think I am violating any confidences. So I'll tell you what she wrote.

"Do you think I should marry this lieutenant? I like him as much as I ever did any man since J. . . . I really think I love him. But with you, I can always come into my mind. Do you think I can ever be happy with any other man? Do you think that love comes only once into one's life, or can a person love more than once? T. . . . is such a fine boy but I would hate to make him unhappy and to find that I'd be mentally unfaithful to him after marrying him."

Now, what would you say in a case like that?

Frankly, I don't know.

But when I don't know, my niece the clipping about Dean and Lavinia, I wrote her as follows:

"I can't tell you whether a person can love more than once, because nobody knows what love is. But I do know that marriage is not only a matter of love but also a matter of duty.

If you think that the boy can make you happy and if you will consider it your duty to make him happy, then I can see no reason to become an old maid just because you are living in a dream.

Quite a few years ago I thought I was in love and that romance went by the boards. Last week I met the girl of whom I had thought of quite often. I spent an hour with her and she told me of her husband and her three children. I looked and I listened. And I congratulated myself that I had escaped a life which would have been utterly miserable."

Well, I hope that Dean and Lavinia have many years of happiness. (Distributed by King Feature Syndicate)

Words Of Wisdom

It is wise to get knowledge and learning from every source—from a pot, a fool, a winter-mitten, or an old slipper.—Rabelais.

Arms Against Japan

There is a disposition in military circles to keep advancing the percentage of war production it will be found necessary to keep in effect after Germany falls. Originally it was estimated that 50 per cent of American plants could be converted to peace output when Japan remained as the sole enemy.

Later this estimate was lowered to 40 per cent and now William L. Blatt, vice chairman of the War Production Board, expresses the belief that only 20 per cent of the nation's war plants can be placed on a peace basis when Germany topples.

"Our military men may not use much of the equipment they have employed in Europe against the Japanese," says Mr. Blatt. "Other types of material are needed and the task of assembling and reshipping across the world is simply not practicable."

Secretary of War Stimson is reported to take issue with this estimate. It does appear strange to the layman that tanks, big guns, small arms and other items of armament now contributing to Hitler's downfall can not be employed to similar effect against Hirohito. Certainly many of the bombers now over Europe should be serviceable in the Pacific, just as the thousands of cargo vessels built for Atlantic traffic can serve the lines of supply in the Pacific.

Naturally some new types of weapons will be brought into play against Japan. But it is incredible that the American Army's grand array of weapons should be permitted to rust in Europe while this nation further strains its resources to manufacture an entirely new supply for the Pacific.

Pennsylvania's Battleship

So the battleship Pennsylvania was knocked out at Pearl Harbor, was she? Yes, but not for long. It now develops that from the shattering blows of that December 7, 1941, sneak attack, the Pennsylvania has come back to fire more main-battery ammunition at Japanese positions than any other ship. She has fought the Japs from Attu to southern Australia and has traveled more than 100,000 miles in pursuit of the enemy.

In the Aleutians, in the Gilberts and Marshalls, in the Marianas, at Guam, in the Palau Islands and at Leyte in the Philippines and elsewhere the old Pennsylvania, it is now revealed by Meyer Berger in the New York Times, has been a rip-roaring headache to the Japs—and still is. This ship, whose keel was laid 32 years ago, has had a career that undoubtedly will live as long as naval history is written.

We're glad the proud old battleship bears the name of this great state. May she escape all the perils of the Pacific war and come back to get some of the public tributes that are her due.

Juvenile Age Limit

Members of the minor judiciary who argue for bills in the Legislature to restore the Juvenile Court age to 16, where it rested before the 1939 Legislature raised it to 18, like to elaborate on the great ease of disposition in their courts as compared with Juvenile Courts.

The Juvenile Court routine is more difficult in some cases, easier in others. But to judge by procedure alone is to be very superficial.

In dealing with lawbreakers, justice-of-the-peace courts are part of the old-line criminal machinery, the objective of which is punishment. The theory of juvenile jurisdiction is rather the salvation of the offender, if possible, through individualized treatment.

It is not practicable to give the minor judiciary facilities for such treatment and the careful diagnosis on which it ought to be based. That is specialized work, better done if centralized in the county Juvenile Court. Physicians, psychiatrists, investigators and probation officers, and careful record keeping are needed.

The Juvenile Court philosophy is established in Pennsylvania beyond possibility of successful challenge. The only question is the age limit. The present limit of 18 is not the lowest in the country and there are those who predict that the Juvenile Court philosophy will eventually rule in the handling of offenders of all ages.—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

The Parents' Job

Every American community has reason to be gravely concerned over the figures on juvenile delinquency which have been placed before Congress. According to J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the FBI, 57 per cent more boys and girls under 18 were brought into the federal courts last year than during 1943. "Offenses involving morality and common decency," he added, "showed the most pronounced rise."

Even considering abnormal wartime conditions of today, this is a shocking increase for a single year. It presents a problem which must be squarely faced by the communities, the schools, the churches and, especially, by the parents of these teen-aged youngsters.

For it is upon the parents and their failure to give youngsters adequate training and attention that the chief responsibility for this condition rests. James V. Bennett, director of the federal prison system, states flatly that most of the boy offenders come from homes broken by death, divorce, or because mother or father moved off to some other job.

It is beyond dispute that home influences are not as strong as they once were. In too many homes children are left to shift for themselves while both the father and mother are away at work. Too many parents leave the moral training and discipline of children to the school and church. These institutions do the best they can, but they cannot pretend to make up for parental neglect.

Communities, too, can help these children to grow up into good citizens with well-organized recreation programs. But there is no substitute for sound home training. If the children of this generation are to be given a fair start in life American parents as a whole will have to do a better job from now on than they did in 1944.

It is possible that some men achieved success to show father-in-law he was mistaken in his opinion of them.

The point in the war has arrived when Hitler no doubt feels impelled to call in the generals and tell them it is time to stomp the experts.

As a matter of discipline, every person should do two things every day which are unpleasant, declares a psychologist. Answering the alarm clock and what else?

Eighty per cent of German people are ready to quit, according to a report. Subtracting the 7 per cent with no opinion, this leaves only 13 per cent eager to fight on.

If man walked on all fours he would be free of sinus trouble, says a scientist. But with his proboscis only inches from the ground, it would not be a great advantage to have it in good working order.

Auxiliary Opens Campaign For More Fracture Beds Here

With Demand For This Equipment Greater Than Supply, Campaign Is Launched For More Beds

Starting immediately the American Legion Auxiliary of Perry S. Gaston Unit No. 343 will have representatives call upon all residents of New Castle and surrounding rural territory, in a campaign to raise funds for a worthy project.

As has been their custom for the past several years, they have conducted campaigns with which to supply emergency hospital equipment for free use in homes here.

The number of fracture beds now available has not answered the need for this equipment in our community, as a result this year's objectives will be additional fracture beds. There is no charge for the use of this emergency equipment when needed in your homes.

The fracture beds are of the hospital type and have all the equipment needed for traction, extension, etc., in broken bone cases. These beds will ease the overcrowding of hospitals here, help in the shortage of nurses, and save individuals expensive hospital bills.

Representatives will call upon everyone in the community, presenting credentials signed by Mrs. Wade Daugherty, Current Legion Auxiliary President, and other Officers.

Citizens are asked to assist in this project which is a bona-fide one carrying the guarantee of the American Legion Auxiliary.

WASHINGTON REPORT

Refuses Crown. . . Like Caesar She Spurns the Insignia of Royalty. Hints That Roosevelt Are Royal Roosevelt. Probably All Fiction. Mrs. Roosevelt Makes Her Crown Museum Piece. . .

In addition to the imaginary story I could see the drawings of the cartoonists. . . "Mrs. Roosevelt with crown on her head and with a scepter in hand." And the caption: "Queen Eleanor!"

Unavoidably amusing stuff, this report on the crown. But there was that other news conference item about the $2,000 "mink coat." "Given me by the Canadian fur growers." It was a good-neighborly gesture. Kind of a symbol of international good will. A symbolic mink coat—value eight thousand dollars. Very nice! Very, very nice.

Next were the harem costumes, gifts of Ibn Saud of Egypt. We chatted about those, too. Very cheery subject. We talked about illegitimate children in liberated countries. The children, born of German fathers to women who had been driven from their own countries to work at forced labor in Germany.

Did Mrs. Roosevelt think the plan of the liberated countries to legitimize the children according to the nationality of the mothers was correct? Mrs. Roosevelt did think so. What else could the liberated countries do?

French Press Represented. After the conference some of us waylaid the two French women journalists who had been present at this more or less official discussion of White House customs and beliefs, distasteful side.

We wanted to find out what the Frenchwomen thought of their first Mrs. Roosevelt conference.

The two ladies were undisturbed and very agreeable. They said they expected the conference to be just like it was. Mrs. Roosevelt, they said, was "so charming. So simple. So great a lady." We could filch no further comments from them except on the subject of legitimizing the children of German fathers.

This they approved heartily for France. For was not the birth rate in France dangerously low? They thought Mrs. Roosevelt had been right when she said that racial characteristics inherited from the German fathers wiped out by environment and education. Therefore to bring the children of enemy fathers into France or any other country would not necessarily mean bringing in dangerous strains and beliefs.

There are more people in Europe than in North and South America combined; also more in Asia than in Europe and the Americas combined.

Receives Word Of Son, Held Prisoner In German Camp

Mrs. Estelle Stockman has received word that her son, Tech. Sgt. Herbert J. Stockman, a prisoner of war in Germany, is in good health. The word came originally to Sgt. Stockman's wife who is in Detroit, and the letter of notification was forwarded from Detroit.

The letter was written on February 27, 1945, by Staff Sgt. Winston E. Lowe, who was a prisoner in the same camp. He has since been repatriated and is now in Halloran General Hospital, Staten Island.

In the letter Sgt. Lowe said that six weeks before the date of the letter, he had left the German prison camp and that Sgt. Stockman was in good health.

Sgt. Lowe praised the American Red Cross for their work in getting packages and various little comforts through to the prisoners.

Pittsburgh Studies Effects Of Curfew

PITTSBURGH, March 20.—(INS)—Patrick T. Fagan, area WMC director, and a curfew committee today were faced with the problem of determining exactly which restaurants shall keep open under the latest Washington directive.

The committee, made up of representatives of restaurants, night clubs, liquor dealers, affected unions and law enforcement officers, was attempting to boil down to every one's satisfaction the paragraph including:

"Restaurants which serve food exclusively, provide no entertainment, and service night workers engaged in war work activities supporting the war effort or providing essential civilian services."

The group tentatively decided that the only restaurants that can stay open after midnight are those now open and that others must apply for permission.

CHEWTON

PIC. BUCCELLI GETS MEDAL

Pic. Carmen A. Buccelli, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patsy Buccelli, and two other members of a gun section in Battery A, 44th AAA AW Bn were manning their gun when they noticed a friendly observation plane plummeting earthward, a K. O. victim of Jerry ack-ack.

Disregarding the danger from flying shrapnel, the three men raced to the scene of the crash, evacuated the wounded and injured personnel from the plane and administered first aid to the casualties until the men could be removed from the scene of the crash. In so doing Pic. Buccelli was struck with shrapnel, but he refused to quit his post. This job well done, the trio returned to the plane and concealed it from observation in an adjacent thicket. Then they returned to their gun. The trio has been awarded the Silver Star for their performance.

Strict Formality Marks Surrender Of Four Japanese

Japs, Yanks Stand At Attention As Nipponese Officers Hand
Over Swords

By S. SGT. FRANCIS H. BARR
Marine Corps Combat Correspondent
(Distributed by International News Service)

IWO JIMA, March 16.—(Delayed) Two officers of the Japanese army medical corps and two corpsmen surrendered today in one of the Pacific war's most dramatic episodes.

The surrender occurred near Fuyama, on the northern tip of this island, where the 28th Regiment of the Third Marine Division is engaged in mopping-up Jap remnants in a bloody pocket. The Jap officers surrendered formally, presented their Samurai swords to Lieut. Lawrence C. Vincent of Detroit, Mich., and Lieut. Wesley Fishel of Cleveland, O.

Cut off from their combat troops, the Japs were hiding in a cave. The senior enemy officer, a first lieutenant, persuaded a second lieutenant and two enlisted men to surrender.

Go Back After Swords
The Jap officers, with Marine guards flanking them, returned to their cave hide-out and retrieved their buried swords for the official surrender ceremony. On a hill pockmarked with shell craters and littered with battle debris, the enemy officers and enlisted men stood rigidly at attention. On their flanks were two Marines, with rifles at "present arms."

The two American officers marched in step toward the Japanese, halting three paces forward, and saluted. The Japanese returned the salute, then the officers offered their swords, cradled in their hands. Not a word was said by either the Americans or Japanese. The Americans accepted the swords. Then, Vincent spoke to the enemy.

"This is very regrettable, but it can't be helped," he said.

One of the enemy officers replied, "We only hope the war will be over as soon as possible. We have done all that we know how."

Samsat, the ancient Samosata, is a village of Asiatic Turkey, on the right bank of the Euphrates. It was the ancient capital of the Syrian kingdom, and from it the ancient road is said to have started to India.

AROUND CITY HALL

Armed with information obtained from the League of Third Class Cities league publication, city officials are awaiting the arrival again of C. H. Young, state health department, who for a few years has been advising the city what it should do toward treating sewage which enters the Mahoning river. Last year council passed a $60,000 issue for repairs at the plant. The district engineer, Mr. Young, wants the city to pass another issue worth $70,000, which doesn't appear probable at this time and in view of the information which is to the effect they state that there are a number of cities in the state which have no plant.

It will not be long until the city acts upon the proposal to provide new meters for auto parking here. The city has advertised for 400 meters of the Miller type or one equal to it. The Miller meter is a meter that allows 12 minutes parking for one cent, another 12 minutes for two pennies or a nickel for one hour. They may be regulated so that two hours parking may be enjoyed for 10 cents. However, it is unknown at present just what time regulation the city will decide upon. Under the law no city can use parking meters as a revenue raiser although it must be stated that they have added $20,000 to $23,000 annually here. They are supposed to be a "traffic control" method.

Mayer John F. Haven recently referred to the present or "old" meters as a "headache." He said some times they work, some times they do not and he inferred that a more up-to-date meter should be installed. So far, no arrangement for disposal of old meters has been made. Persons interested in the present meters claim they have paid for themselves and the only cost now is upkeep and that they could be conditioned for several hundred dollars expenditure.

Pfc. M. A. Navarra Wins Bronze Star

(Special To The News)
WITH THE SIXTH ARMY IN THE PHILIPPINES—Pfc. Michael A. Navarra has received the bronze star medal for his outstanding work in connection with military operations against the enemy near Lao New Guinea, from September 13 to 15, 1943, when he operated his LCM for 43 out of 56 hours, carrying supplies to an Australian force on a beachhead across the Busu river.

"Because of the high water caused by heavy rains, it was necessary to navigate the heavy seas at the mouth of the river often under intense enemy mortar and artillery fire," his citation reads. "Pfc. Navarra by his persistent and courageous action greatly contributed to the success of this operation which might otherwise have been hopelessly imperiled."

The local man is the son of Mrs. Jennie Navarra, 1325 West State street, New Castle, Pa.

Seek Revision Of O.P.A. Methods Of Price Fixing

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(INS)—A movement developed in the senate banking committee Monday to revise the O.P.A. method of fixing ceiling prices on meats as a means of combating the growing shortage.

As civilian meat supplies were slashed 12 per cent further it appeared possible that a fight may develop on the bill for the extension of the price control act, which apparently had been assured of smooth sailing through congress.

The committee was confronted with reports that packers now are losing money, with scores of middle-sized packing houses being threatened with extinction which might contribute to the meat shortage.

Sen. Radcliffe (D-Md.), a committee member, disclosed that he had appealed to the O.P.A. to revise its price ceilings to avert the threatened closing of some packing plants.

With Price Administrator Chester Bowles determined to hold down prices, however, an increase appeared doubtful. O.P.A. experts want to wait longer to determine whether the losses sustained by packers will be reversed in future months.

"Something should be done, because the situation is becoming serious," said Radcliffe.

Can Be Spared

By WILLIAM THEIS
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Congressional leaders, facing a spring legislative cleanup and a now definite House recess, declared Monday there is no thought of sending their bi-partisan foreign policy delegation to the San Francisco United Nations conference.

Congress will be represented at the security conference, it was made clear only by its two Senate and two House members on the official American delegation.

No invitation has been issued by the State Department to include as "observers" the other Republicans and Democrats through whom Secretary of State Stettinius has kept Congress informed of foreign policy developments. Nor is there any prospect that such invitation may be tendered later, spokesmen in both houses affirmed.

"Isn't Contemplated"
Both unofficial groups, which include the four official delegates, conferred separately with Stettinius last week on the conference arrangements. The question of any of the six other senators and five other congressmen going to San Francisco for the April 25th conference "hasn't come up and isn't contemplated," published reports to the contrary notwithstanding, one leader asserted.

Members in both houses pointed out that it would be virtually impossible to pull out the key men on Capitol Hill and still hope to handle the schedule of major legislation remaining to be enacted before the end of the fiscal year on June 30.

House Gets Holiday
The House is making definite plans to take an Easter recess from March 27 or 28 to about April 15. This, it is planned, will be by Senate consent. The upper chamber, with a heavier business schedule in the immediate future, is not expected to join in the holiday.

It is against this background that the San Francisco delegates—Sens. Connally (D-Tex.) and Vandenberg (R-Mich.) and Reps. Blanton (D-N.Y.) and Eaton (R-N.J.)—are preparing for the historic sessions next month.

Their colleagues in the larger bi-partisan group are being informed of each step in the conference preparations. Those from the Senate are Majority Leader Barkley, Minority Leader White and Sens. George (D-Ga.) Thomas (D-Utah), LaFollette (D-Wis.) and Austin (R-Vt.). The House members are: Speaker Rayburn, Majority Leader McCormack, Minority Leader Martin and the two party whips, Reps. Ramspeck (D-Ga.) and Arends (R-Ill.).

Back After Mission
To Switzerland

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(INS)—Lauchlin Currie, special assistant to President Roosevelt, returned to Washington Monday after a mission to Switzerland aimed at stopping the flow of strategic materials from that country to Germany.

Currie reported to state department officials today and later will make a personal report to the president.

It was understood that the mission has been successful in putting a stop to two movements of supplies of value to Germany. The first was Swiss exports to Germany, which the Swiss government now agrees to reduce to five per cent of their 1942 figure. The second was the traffic in iron and coal across Switzerland between Germany and northern Italy. The new allied-Swiss agreement, in which Currie participated, puts a stop to this traffic.

The agreement prohibits the supply of Swiss electric current to Germany, and makes this current available to France. Also, German funds in Switzerland are to be blocked, and the Swiss government agrees to prevent looted property from being concealed in Switzerland.

"Somewhere at sea," a PT boat roars past an aircraft carrier. The planes are Navy Dauntless Dive bombers. (Official U. S. Navy photograph.)

Bombers, fighter planes, PT boats are powered by 100-octane gasoline. It's well known that gasoline of this rating can be made from oil of low sulfur content. But urgent demands for the gas were even greater than enormous supplies of the oil.

Atlantic supplied an answer... with the help of the glass wool that comes in "bats." As a result, high sulfur content of certain crude oils no longer limits production of 100-octane combat gas.

At the start, Atlantic's scientists jumped in to produce 91-octane fuel from these oils. That was when unheard-of quantities of such gasoline suddenly were demanded for our aviation training program. Battling against time, Atlantic engineers whipped problem after problem in pilot plant run—finally got 91-octane from high sulfur oils.

With the switch to full-scale operation in the refinery, new "bugs" popped up. Carbon particles plugged the top of the huge catalyst bed, retarding the flow of vapors.

Here's where Atlantic researchers "broke up the game" with glass wool bats. The glass wool caught the carbon... licked the last trouble in volume production under the new process. So successful is the process that today it's being used to produce 100-octane fighting fuel.

That's typical Atlantic research. Helping win the war today... it will bring you even finer petroleum products for peacetime use tomorrow.

Veteran To Get Break In Small Business Field

Small Businesses Started By Veterans Will Get Food Supply
Allotments

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(INS)—The Office of Price Administration has opened to World War II veterans the "small" business field of bakeries, lunch counters and candy shops which are dependent upon rationed food supplies in a move designed to facilitate the rehabilitation of servicemen to civil life.

Under the new regulation, effective March 26, eligible veterans may choose between two types of establishments.

One group, which uses rationed foods as raw materials, includes bakeries, ice cream makers, soft drink bottlers, potato chip fryers and candy manufacturers.

The other uses rationed foods for serving so-called refreshments. These include small restaurants or eating places which serve potato chips, popcorn or nuts, fruit and vegetable juices, ice cream or carbonated drinks.

OPA emphasized that these businesses, which have been barred to newcomers under wartime rationing, will receive equitable allotments of limited food supplies so as to place them on an equal footing with similar "small" establishments now in operation.

"If these limits were not set," OPA said, "many existing users of rationed foods, all of whom are operating with reduced allotments, might be driven out of business as a result of necessary reductions caused by the increased number of users."

OPA said the regulation was in line with veteran readjustment provisions of the "GI bill of rights." It added that other OPA orders are being reviewed to determine whether additional changes of aid to veterans can be made within the allotments of scarce commodities for civilian use.

CAPETOWN, March 20.—(INS)—South African Prime Minister Field Marshal Jan Smuts announced in the assembly today that he will attend both the San Francisco conference, and the preliminary conference in London.

Premier Smuts said: "The government has decided that I shall be the principal delegate for the union at the San Francisco conference as well as the preliminary discussions which are to take place in London."

"We have decided that, for the London conference, I shall have as my colleague the South African high commissioner in London (G. Heaton Nicholas) and for the San Francisco conference the Union minister to the United States (Ralph William Close)."

Smuts added that he would have to leave fairly soon and would be unable to take part in the proceedings of Parliament after Easter.

The structure was roped off yesterday after seven guests were reported nearly overcome by gas fumes from broken pipes.

LIEUT. GEN. PATCH

Lieut. Gen. Alexander M. Patch, who fought the Germans in three great offensives in World War I, today is leading his U. S. Seventh Army deeper into the Saar with a canniness which comes only from many campaigns, including one against the Japanese in World War II.

In a drive against the Nazis still west of the Rhine coordinated with that of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, General Patch again is seeing the Krauts on the run. The forward momentum of his troops is a familiar experience to him. In 1918 as a lieutenant colonel he participated in the Aisne-Marne, St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives.

A native of Arizona and a graduate of West Point, he spent the time between wars as an assistant professor of military science and tactics at Staunton Military Academy and attending the command and general staff school and the Army War college. A temporary colonel at the beginning of this war, he rose rapidly, commanded the American forces on New Caledonia and the final phases of the Guadalcanal campaign when the Army took over from the Marines.

After a brief sojourn in the states, Patch took command of the U. S. Seventh Army in the Mediterranean theater, succeeding Patton who went to command the Third Army under a cloak of pre-invasion secrecy. Leading the Seventh, Patch organized the swift, victorious invasion of southern France which eventually made a junction with Patton's rampaging tanks.

G.I.'s Send Home Priceless Jewels As War Souvenirs

By EVALUATE READ

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

DALLAS, Tex., March 20.—War souvenirs have turned the standard value of jewelry topsy-turvy. Dallas jewelers have learned from experience in dealing with stones, shells and trinkets brought to them for finishing by servicemen returned from overseas.

The value is based on something more profound than the pecuniary premium which might be placed on the ornaments. The jewelers contend as they relate numerous stories about jewels or shells they handle.

Brought or sent from remote combat areas of the globe, numerous priceless jewels have reached the hands of local jewelers. The veterans of the trade admit their amazement and fancy at handling the rare gems.

A magnificent star sapphire brought from Italy to a Dallas jewelry manufacturing company, now being mounted in a circle of small diamonds, brought a gleam to the jeweler's eye comparable to the glint of the star in the gem.

The jewel authority, disregarding the sentimental worth of the sapphire to its owner—it is to be a gift to his wife—estimated its price on the American market as $600. Mounted according to the owner's plan, the ring would retail at $1,100, the jeweler said. The price paid by the serviceman in Italy was $300.

Another gem dealer and craftsman for more than 20 years refused to place a monetary value on an opal which has reached his workshop. Approximately an inch long with an oval shape, the chatoyant mineral was brought back by a serviceman from Sicily, Australia. The handler commented that he never had held an opal so rare and therefore could not appraise it. The gem will become a pendant for the warrior's lady-fair.

Numerous other opals have reached Dallas craftsmen from both the European and South Pacific war zones. A prospect of emeralds, however, has been noticed from Italy, India and other European and Mediterranean points.

Volant Gunner Flies 52 Missions

(Special To The News)

FIFTEENTH AAF IN ITALY—Staff Sgt. Clarence E. Knight, 21-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Knight of Volant, Pa., flew his 52nd daylight bombing mission in the Mediterranean theater on February 25 over a heavily defended railroad yard in Austria.

Volant gunner on an Italy-based B-17 Flying Fortress, his roughest mission was on August 15, 1944, the day Allied infantry invaded the coast of Southern France. Bombing a Rhone river bridge at Valence, France, every lane in his group was hit by flak but the bridge was destroyed.

The gunner's first mission was on July 13, 1944, over a German-controlled railroad yard at Verona, Italy. S-Sgt. Knight wears the Air Medal and two Oak Leaf Clusters for his service on these 52 missions.

Hear Of China At Woman's Club

Dr. Teyhi Hsieh, Director Of Chinese Service Bureau
Is Speaker Monday

"The dignity of the Chinese people in a world of chaotic upheaval" proved to be the basis of an address by Dr. Teyhi Hsieh, director of Chinese Service Bureau in this country. He was introduced to Woman's club members at their monthly meeting in the Highland U. P. church on Monday afternoon by Mrs. Glenn R. Throop.

In flawless Cambridge English, abounding with sparkling witicism and refreshing humor, China's premier-spokesman won the good will and friendship of the audience for his people. With clear and convincing logic he described modern China. From birth to death, China has changed, as educational influences and western cultures have invaded her land. She has felt the birthpangs of a new language when her many dialects were made uniform under American educated Dr. James Yen.

Chinese students at the rate of 1000 per year are preparing for professions in United States universities and returning to their native land to build China of tomorrow. He also stated "we young politically, China has accepted the challenge of stabilizing her government, bridging the gap between east and west, so she might become a member of the community of nations."

Industrially, China is backward, but tomorrow she will grow to power. Agriculturally 80 per cent of her population is on the land cultivating 210 million acres for her teeming 480 million people.

For Enduring Peace
If we are to have an enduring peace, the nations must not rely on military experts and statesmen alone, but must base their agreement on the Ten Commandments of Moses.

The future for China looms bright in the family of nations, he said. Among the 150 delegates to the San Francisco conference will be her four most distinguished statesmen—T. V. Soong, minister of finance; Wang Chai Wei, minister of justice; former world court judge; Dr. Wellington Koo, ambassador to Great Britain, and finally their representative on UNRRA.

The lessening of frictions such as the removal of the extra-territorial barriers which establishes equal rights for all Chinese; the abolition of the exclusion act which places China on a relative immigration basis, permitting the admittance of 107 Chinese per year; acceptance of China as a member of the great war council will help implement the peace and deepen the desire for the freedom of democracy. In turn, China's contribution to the world will continue to be her humility, humanity and gentility, he concluded.

He was parked there and police believe he fell to sleep while smoking a cigarette which set the seat cushions on fire. He managed to escape from the car and crawl to a porch. An alarm was turned in and the fire put out by firemen.

Prison Charges Being Probed

LANSING, Mich., March 20.—(INS)—Charges of widespread inmate gambling, drinking and "favoritism" by high prison officials toward influential prisoners were under investigation today by Jackson prison in Jackson, Mich.

Leslie P. Keigen, chairman of the State Corrections Commission, said the investigation had been in progress for more than a week.

The probe stemmed from the escape of Joseph Medley, 43-year-old prison trusty, now under arrest in Washington as a suspect in the slaying of three women since his flight from the institution.

Keigen said the commission was principally concerned with reports that certain inmates enjoyed special privileges through friendship with guards and prison officials who allowed them freedom in and out of the institution.

It was reported that Medley had succeeded in talking officials into permitting him to go to a war bond headquarters in Jackson to buy war bonds for fellow inmates. His escape was not reported for hours. It was also reported that a high prison official lent Medley a suit of clothes.

Seek Names Of Children Who Petted 'Mad' Dog

Chief of Police Robert D. Hanna today received from State Dog Agent Howard McLure a report that a dog which bit several persons on Liberty street, late last month had been found mad. The chief said he would like to know the names of the children and their parents should so report to him. They are apt to be infected, the chief stated.

The report of McLure showed Frank Pugliese, 26, Mary Lou Pugliese, 3, both of Hillside and Miss Mary Morante, 16, 1123 North Cedar street and also Angelo Camale, 7, 215 Newell avenue were attacked. Hanna stated today it was his first definite report of the affair, hence children who petted the dog should be made known.

Military Demands To Be Slightly Eased

Some Improvement In Civilian Goods May Result Is Promise From Washington

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(INS)—Disclosure that military authorities have agreed to cut back their requirements in a number of vital consumer goods to avoid disrupting the civilian economy was welcome news today to citizens being hard-pressed by increasing shortages.

The announcement was made by war production chairman J. A. Krug who declared that military authorities now have agreed to go a little easier on demands for textiles, clothing, shoes, work gloves, tires and repair parts, and that the huge army demands for cotton duck are under consideration with a downward revision in view.

Requirements for a number of other goods also are being reviewed in cases where military demands threaten minimum basic civilian needs, Krug indicated.

Plans Roll Back On Prices
At the same time, the Office of Price Administration paved the way for its promised six to seven per cent rollback of clothing and textile prices by freezing retail prices in 300,000 of the nation's stores.

Also froze were retail prices of furniture and house furnishings in anticipation of price reductions for these goods. The action was called one of the most important steps in price control by OPA Administrator Chester Bowles.

The price freeze, Bowles said, paved the way for clothing and textile price reductions under the recently announced joint OPA-War Production Board program channeling more cloth into low and moderate cost essential clothing items. The program's object is to roll back prices to the 1942-43 average.

None of the following items, under the freeze, can be sold at higher prices by retailers than those items cost today:

Most types of men's, women's, children's and infants' rayon and woolen clothing, and all cotton clothing except that which is under specific dollar and cent ceilings; sweaters, gloves, handbags, hosiery and other accessories; war goods for home sewing; furniture, bedding; floor coverings and lamps and lamp shades.

La Guardia Seeking To Force Appointment On Some Important War Post, Is Belief

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Mayor Fiorello La Guardia's curfew relaxation in New York was viewed in Washington today as serving notice on the Roosevelt administration that he will run as a Republican candidate for re-election this year unless the New Deal drafts him for an important war job.

It is known that La Guardia would prefer an important war post rather than run for re-election as mayor of New York City.

War Mobilizer James P. Byrnes, meanwhile, admitted in a formal White House statement that he was powerless to enforce the curfew over the defiance of the New York City municipal authorities.

"The government has no police force of its own available to discover local violations," Byrnes declared. "It has no intention of building up such a force."

While expressing "surprise" at La Guardia's defiance, Byrnes issued an appeal for "uniform" observance at the midnight closing hour throughout the nation.

La Guardia's action in adding one hour onto the New York City curfew time was viewed as a sound political move in his effort to build up the following he will need if he is to run for re-election as a Republican without the endorsement or support of the New Deal.

His defiance in this instance is but one of many steps he can take to make it "hot" for the federal administration between now and the city's next mayoralty election in November.

Shows Vital Uses For
Salvaged Waste Paper

Already some minor crowds have been attracted to the downtown store window which the local Girl Scouts have fixed up in an attempt to visually explain just how to donate to the paper salvage, this coming Saturday, and why to donate to the drive.

A loose, messy looking pile of papers is scattered beside a neatly tied bale, showing both the wrong way and the right. And a "new sandwich" turned out to be piles of cereal boxes and other cartons between a top and bottom layer of newspapers.

Only a few of the thousands of uses of the paper could be exhibited in the window, so the scouts chose some of the most vital ones, such as blood plasma containers, prisoner-of-war boxes, corrugated paper shipping rings for 105 mm. shells, and for 500 pound bombs made here in the city.

The window was arranged under the direction of Mrs. Paul Forey, program chairman of the Girl Scout council.

Patterson Learns Facts Concerning Two 'Trust' Houses

George Patterson, assessor for the city, today reported that he had made an investigation concerning rental payments on two houses in Cedar street, held in trust by the county. He said he was informed rent was being paid on one house but that he had been unable to determine if rental was paid on another. However, the facts are: One house is occupied by the family of a returned soldier. The other is occupied by his mother, his sister-in-law and children of his brother who is in military service. The family is on relief, Patterson stated. He asserted that he has so reported city council.

It has been reported the County Commissioner Joseph V. Travers had objected to Paul Marakas, city delinquent tax collector, going into the property. Apparently the soldier in service angle inspired Travers' vexation. Patterson said he experienced no difficulty ascertaining the information stated in the foregoing.

The land under irrigation throughout the world is estimated at about 200,000,000 acres.

Girl Scout Exhibit
Shows Vital Uses For
Salvaged Waste Paper

Already some minor crowds have been attracted to the downtown store window which the local Girl Scouts have fixed up in an attempt to visually explain just how to donate to the paper salvage, this coming Saturday, and why to donate to the drive.

A loose, messy looking pile of papers is scattered beside a neatly tied bale, showing both the wrong way and the right. And a "new sandwich" turned out to be piles of cereal boxes and other cartons between a top and bottom layer of newspapers.

Only a few of the thousands of uses of the paper could be exhibited in the window, so the scouts chose some of the most vital ones, such as blood plasma containers, prisoner-of-war boxes, corrugated paper shipping rings for 105 mm. shells, and for 500 pound bombs made here in the city.

The window was arranged under the direction of Mrs. Paul Forey, program chairman of the Girl Scout council.

Takes 250 Censors To Peruse Copy Of Thousand Writers

PARIS.—(INS)—A running tally kept 250 censors on the work of 1,000 war correspondents accredited to Shafel shows today that they have filed upwards of one hundred million words from Europe since D-day.

During the same period press censors have passed over 3,000,000 feet of movie film, 1,500,000 still photographs.

In the early stages of the Allied operation the bulk of the material was censored in the United Kingdom. But as the armies crashed through France the balance shifted and of the 100,000,000 word total about 68,000,000 has been censored in Europe.

In addition to the material submitted by commercial newsmen, articles written by officer observers and by serving soldiers must be censored. Amateur film and photos offer about 20,000 feet of film and 35,000 photographs for the censors each week. Public relations office releases for home town papers run nearly 10,000 submissions and well over two million words a week. These figures are not included in the grand total.

In war events that can be anticipated the censors usually go forward with the correspondents, as was true at Arnhem, when two press censors were dropped with troops.

Although the president of the United States is commander-in-chief of the army and navy he is denied one privilege accorded every soldier and sailor regardless of rank—the right to wear the uniform.

B-29 Hits Depend On Ground Crews For Real Success

Best Quality Machinery, Two Jimas Bases All Contribute To Mass Bombings

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

HEADQUARTERS, 21st BOMBER COMMAND, Guam, March 20.—The reason the 21st Bomber Command has been able to increase the tempo and scope of Superfortress raids against Japan was explained in part today by the report of a famous
B-29 named "Thumper" which completed 22 missions over the enemy homeland before it required new engines.

This particular B-29 came out of Boeing's Wichita plant and bears a picture of Walt Disney's famous rabbit character, Thumper. A baby has been painted on the nose of the plane after each mission, complete with the purple heart in case the ship was damaged in any raid.

As the result of work of ground crews and the quality of American machinery, the bomber command has been able to hit Japan's principal cities with greater and greater waves of Superfortresses and heavier bombloads. The recent raids on Kobe and Nagoya were carried out by the greatest armada of B-29s ever sent probably well over 300 planes in each assault.

Another factor has been the capture and reconstruction of two Jima's airbases. The recently-seized island midway on the road to Tokyo must come in for a share of the credit in view of the fact that a total of 51 Superfortresses have been able to make emergency landings there while returning from raids on Japan.

When the Superfort, Thumper rolled onto the hard sand at its nearby Marikina base following the raid on Osaka last week, its original
Wright engines had flown 400 hours.

Any old degradation in which ways-looking masses grow on the eye line is a condition common in China and elsewhere in the East.

...One Nation, Indivisible

SOME FACTS ABOUT THE PRESENT...AND A WORD ABOUT THE FUTURE

Q. What is the transit industry?
A. It is one of the nation's largest businesses. It includes over a thousand separate companies—from those operating as few as five to ten buses to those with great fleets of vehicles of all types in large metropolitan centers. It provides basic transportation service for the people in cities, towns and adjacent areas throughout the country.

Q. Why aren't express highways for autos the answer in cities?
A. Because the problem is not one of speed, but of capacity. At 35 miles per hour a lane of automobiles can transport more people past a given point than at 55 miles an hour. The reason is that the auto must travel further apart at higher speed. A single lane of buses will move five times as many people per hour.

Q. How has the war affected transit service?
A. The number of people being carried by transit vehicles is 64% greater than in 1941.

Q. What does this indicate for the future?
A. Simply this—to solve our traffic problem we must think in terms of moving people instead of vehicles. When people ride together, traffic congestion is avoided because fewer vehicles are needed. This everyone benefits from public transit—the property owner, the businessman and the public at large.

Q. How can I learn more about this subject?
A. Write to us today for a fascinating booklet about transit and its postwar plans. It's free for the asking.

Man Begg Term In Prison To Escape Cleveland Courts

CHICAGO, March 20.—(INS)—George G. Whitney, 38, of Cleveland, O., was headed for prison today at his own request, in fact, at his insistence, to serve a sentence of a year and a day for rifling the mails.

On his conviction in the court of Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan, his court-appointed attorney, Edward J. Hess, asked that the verdict be set aside so that Whitney might face charges in Cleveland of criminal attack, but Whitney interposed.

"Oh, no. If you don't send me to prison I'll have to face trial on that charge in Cleveland and the courts there are corrupt and unjust."

Judge Sullivan remarked he had no alternative but to grant the defendant's wishes. Whitney thanked him profusely.

Lincoln-Garfield Grade Champions

Defeat Thaddeus-Stevens In Fast Battle 19 To 11 At Franklin Floor
Monday

LEHBERGER AND LUTZ ARE STARS

Lincoln-Garfield's undefeated grade school basketball team, coached by Martin Leonhardt, Jr., won the New Castle Elementary school basketball championship yesterday afternoon at the Franklin High floor by defeating Thaddeus-Stevens 19 to 11.

The battle was up and tuck the first half, the Long avenue boys holding the edge 5 to 4. In the final two periods the Leonhardt coached juggernaut led by Lehberger, Rousseau and Pulea piled in 14 points to seven for the East Siders, to coast to the title. The East Siders were held scoreless the entire fourth period. Lutz with six points was best in the Thaddeus lineup.

Get Handsome Trophy
The Thaddeus-Stevens team was coached by Laura Cowmeadow, and a lot of credit is due the following girl cheerleaders for their work the last season: Margaret Novara, Catherine Clay, Joan Mancino, Janet Robb, Donna Webber, Irene Cusicko, Kathryn Spencer.

As a result of their splendid achievement the Lincoln-Garfield team now holds two legs on the Elementary School trophy cup, and need but one more title to keep the trophy permanently.

Coach Leonhardt of the championship Lincoln-Garfield team would like to play the St. Vitus team, the Catholic Grade School champions. The Lincoln-Garfield boys are from 12 to 13 years of age, no boy over 13 is eligible for the team. Over 400 fans witnessed the game yesterday. Tourney Director Jimmy Dart refereed the game and did a fine job. Dart also did a good job in handling the various details, connected with the tournament.

FAIR OR FOUL By LAWTON CARVER INS Sports Editor

NEW YORK, March 20.—Eddie Egan, new and active chairman of the New York Athletic Commission, is still looking for an invention that will make everybody see a prize fight alike.

Ever since he succeeded Gen. John Phelan as head of this board which governs boxing around here, he has admitted the need of some kind of a fool proof scoring system. He is about to have new cards printed for his officials, with what he considers a better scoring system all laid out for them. He already has installed several new officials into Madison Square Garden's spotlighted turmoil. He's wondering what else might be done.

Eagan Angered
For once the fight-wise citizenry is stumped. Everybody has an opinion, but if you add all this up you only get a new mess of confusion.

The need for a quick discovery or invention of some kind to solve the problem was brought more prominently to the fore last Friday night when the officials became so entangled in their scoring that the Jimmy Bivins-Melito Bettina Fandango ended in a draw.

This irked Chairman Eagan, who

DePaul-St. Johns Win In Tourney

DePaul Defeats West Virginia, St. Johns Trims Muhlenberg In Garden Games

NEW YORK, March 20.—(INS)—St. John's university and DePaul advanced to the semi-final round of the national invitation basketball tournament today after victories over Muhlenberg and West Virginia, respectively, at Madison Square Garden last night.

St. John's will meet Bowling Green and DePaul will clash with Rhode Island tomorrow night, and the two victors will play for the national crown which St. John's has held for the last two years.

Mikan Scores 33
St. John's kept alive its chances for making it three straight last night by coming from behind to edge out Muhlenberg, 34 to 33. DePaul's Blue Demons downed West Virginia, 76 to 52, in a one-sided contest which saw DePaul's unstoppable center, George Mikan, set a new 1945 Garden record by scoring 33 points.

Valencia Winner In Detroit Bout

DETROIT, March 20.—(INS)—Swarthy, baby-faced Chilandrina Valencia, Mexican bantamweight champion today held an unanimous round decision over Jan Barge, Montreal featherweight, to show for his first fight in the United States.

Valencia, with 39 victories in 40 fights to his credit before he left Mexico City for the fight, was cast in an underdog role as he entered the ring. Barge, outweighed him, had a longer reach, was taller and undefeated as a feather.

Two New Members For Game Board

HARRISBURG, March 20.—(INS)—Two members of the State Game Commission had reappointments from Gov. Edward Martin today for eight-year terms on the wildlife agency. They were:

Nicholas Biddle, Springhead, Jenkintown, and Harold Moltz of Williamsport. Both will serve until January, 1953. The appointments were subject to Senate confirmation.

LINDELL SIGNS CONTRACT

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., March 20.—(INS)—Manager Joe McCarthy's Yankee outfield worries were lessened at least temporarily today after the signing of his John Lindell, lanky California fly catcher, who aided the New York batting of terms after ten days of horse trading, was to report today along with George Strinreich who will take up duties at second base.

Will Banquet Two Champion Teams

Westminster College And
New Wilmington High
Players To Be Feted

BOTH TEAMS MADE NOTABLE RECORDS

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., March 20.—Westminster college and New Wilmington high school basketball teams will be entertained at a testimonial banquet given in their honor tonight at 6:30 in the basement of the local United Presbyterian church.

Two service groups, the Rotary and Kiwanis club, are joining to provide a chicken dinner for the two championship teams. Dr. J. J. McIlvaine, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in New Castle, will be the principal speaker. Wallace McKean will act as toastmaster.

Both local basketball teams experienced a successful season this year. The high school quintet, coached by Tom Hutchinson, won the section championship and a chance to compete for the class B WPIAL title. They were defeated by Avalon in the quarter finals.

Coach Grover Washabaugh's Towering Titans closed their season with sensational victories over Geneva and Akron to win the district's mythical collegiate title.

Snead And Nelson In Playoff Match

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 20.—(INS)—Those deadly rivals of the golf links, Sam Snead and Byron Nelson, hooked up in an 18-hole playoff today after winding up in a 272 score dead heat in the $10,000 Charlotte open tournament.

Snead apparently was bothered by an old back injury, but his 16 under par figures for the 72 holes did not indicate it had thrown him far off his game.

A victory for Snead today would give him his fourth winter championship in a row and his seventh for the season. It also would mean the difference between $2,000 and $15,000 in prize money.

Hornets Buy Two New Hockey Stars

PITTSBURGH, March 20.—(INS)—With this year's hockey season hardly out of the way, the Pittsburgh Hornets announced today the acquisition of two young centers for the 1945-46 season.

Both men, Johnny Mahaffey and Ken Schultz, saw action with the Hornets this year while on loan from other clubs. Mahaffey was purchased from the Montreal Canadiens and Schultz from the Toronto Maple Leafs.

The management also announced that attendance at the Pittsburgh rink topped all previous records, with a possible total of 100,000 paid admissions.

High Students Study Revolver

When the Sportsman's Revolver club meets at eight o'clock tonight at the Cathedral range, a group of students from high school will join the basic firearms class. The course will be of value to them later should they be called into military service according to Secretary Charles Schweinberg, secretary. A-S Bill Bilger, Navy, has informed the club that his school diploma has won him a recommendation for a gunnery instructor.

In a shoot between the club and the Youngstown police, the former won, 1,273 to 1,217. McKee was high with 274.

ST. VITUS LOSES

The St. Vitus team lost to the St. Johns team in the Catholic tourney at Pittsburgh Sunday, 14 to 12, it was announced today.

CAMPFIRE CORNER

TOGUE VS. SALMON

Back in the spring of 1941 I wrote Dr. Samuel Eddy, University of Minnesota ichthyologist, to answer yes or no, whether there were any land-locked salmon in our north central states or in the Great Lakes. I'd been reading so many resort ads extolling the delights of landlocked salmon fishing in those regions that I was almost ready to throw overboard a pet impression that the landlocked salmon is confined to Sebago lake, the Schoodic chain, Sebago lake, Grand lake and a few other lakes and rivers in the Maine region. Dr. Eddy's reply strengthened my impression into conviction. The doctor wrote, in answer to my query:

Found In Eastern America

"The true landlocked salmon is a variety of the Atlantic salmon and is found in several restricted areas in eastern America, including Maine and Quebec. They have been introduced into several Minnesota lakes without success. They have been introduced into Lake Superior, too, but so far as we know very few, if any, survived for any length of time and none reproduced. Several doubtful reports of catches of landlocked salmon were received from Lake Superior a few years ago. The lake trout native to Lake Superior is frequently mis-called 'landlocked salmon,' particularly by resort owners."

That settled that, I thought. But last summer northern Wisconsin resorts burst into full bloom of enthusiasm about "landlocked" salmon being hauled in from waters adjacent to the Apostle Islands and elsewhere in the area. So I resumed my investigations and found experts still agreed that there are no landlocked salmon in Lake Superior, or at least if there are they're being hidden away from anyone qualified to identify them.

Really Lake Trout

The truth seems to be that the "landlocked salmon" of the Great Lakes and smaller lakes in the north central states are merely pink-fleshed lake trout, or togue—the Christomere name—as opposed to the Salmon seabago.

"The lake trout, gray trout, or togue, exhibits great variations even in the same lake and on the same fishing grounds, but some waters are characterized by white-fleshed trout, these latter being as healthy, well fed and well flavored as the fish from lakes in which the trout are uniformly tinted pink or red," says the Bureau of Fisheries in Washington, D. C.

City authorities, perhaps less authoritative, claim the red-fleshed trout inhabits deeper, colder waters than their white-fleshed kin. I've always nursed an idea that the red-fleshed fellows were a little better eating. Perhaps I've been hypnotized by the coloration, just as the resort owners have to the extent that they're willing to ignore scientific research and advertise the "best landlocked salmon fishing" when there isn't any.

Sylvan Heights Committee Meets

Plans for the coming summer were discussed at a meeting of the advisory committee of the Sylvan Heights course, the city's own playground, at a meeting held in the clubhouse Sunday afternoon, presided over by W. T. Sault, president of the committee.

The course was found in excellent condition, and with a few more days of favorable weather, will be ready for rolling. Play has been permitted on the fairways, but the greens are still a little too soft to permit play without damage.

The committee discussed various recommendations which will be submitted to city council for their approval.

Ready To Induct Keltner Today

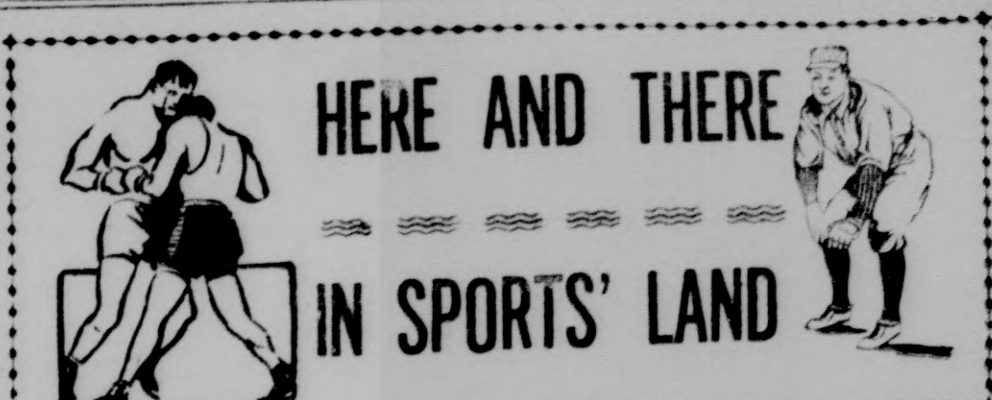

MILWAUKEE, March 20.—(INS)—Third Baseman Ken Keltner of the Cleveland Indians was to be inducted into the Navy today in Milwaukee. Keltner has been training with the team at its spring camp in Lafayette, Ind.

Originally, he was scheduled for induction last Saturday in Cleveland but obtained a delay by asking that the papers be transferred to Milwaukee. He is the father of two children.

ACCENTUATING the Positive result of the second race at Mexico City the other day we find that Latch On affirmed his owner's belief he could win, the nag refusing to mess around with any in-betweens position. Before the race you might have bought Latch On for a song, but after paying $15.80 you can't buy him now, not even for Johnny Mercer's popular ditty. . . . This is the time of year when the accent is off the glamor gal's figure and put on the curves displayed by the unglamorous major league pitchers.

The Olympics weren't scheduled for Berlin this year but the Allied armies are putting the Germans to rout fast and the war has become an international race to Berlin. . . . It was "Heil Hitler!" at the 1936 Olympics when Der Fuehrer arrived to greet the winners. The ex-papier-hammer, however, has been pasted all over the lot now and even some Germans are reported giving him the brush-off. . . . Johnny Crimmins, the Detroit bowler who created three Michigan State Journey records when he rolled an 803 total in the doubles to add to his partner's score of 623, was hailed as the bowler of the year in 1942. . . . He has a 10-year ABC average of 203. . . . Included in his big total recently was a 300 game.

Record for paid attendance in the American League is held by the Yanks who recorded a paid attendance of 1,289,442 in 1920 when the club finished third. . . . Boston Red Sox have no catchers left from last year. . . . The Tigers, on the other hand, have their whole staff back. . . . Clark Griffith was the first manager of the Yanks, serving during the years 1903-1907. . . . Connie Mack is president and manager of the Athletics; Roy Mack is vice president and secretary and Earl Mack is assistant manager and captain. . . . Tex Warrington, picked on several all-American football teams last year and an all-Southeastern conference choice, has been added to the coaching staff at his alma mater, Alabama Polytechnic Institute. The head coach is Carl Voyles.

Hershey Has Edge Over Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, March 20.—(INS)—The Hershey Bears held a slight edge over the Indianapolis Caps as the two clubs prepared for the first game in the second place playoffs of the American Ice Hockey league tonight at Indianapolis.

The chocolate towners netted 197 goals during the 60-game season, while the Caps rang the bell 167 times. The puck was netted in Hershey's nets 186 times, while 167 markers caromed into the Indianapolis cage. In game points for the season, Hershey captured 64 and the Caps three less.

Cleveland and Buffalo will open the first place playoffs simultaneously in Cleveland.

Two Penn State staff members, Ring Coach Leo Houck and Trainer Jack Hulme, are not overseas as Army sports consultants.

Title Game At Farrell Floor

The Donora-Sharsville basketball game tonight, that will decide the Western Pennsylvania championship, will be played at the Farrell High floor, instead of the Beaver Falls floor as originally announced.

The winner tonight will play the winner of the Radnor-Allentown game at Philadelphia Saturday night for the state championship.

RECAP and RIDE
New tire allotments are reduced. Your chances for a new tire are slim. The best solution is to RECAP NOW. You get thick, new, safer treads on your worn tires. We use the B. F. GOODRICH METHOD. It's factory-approved and mileage proved. NO RATIONING CERTIFICATE NEEDED. Let us counsel you on repairing cuts and bruises, proper pressures, all tire problems. Quality materials used. War needs come first. If you wait for new tires, you may regret it. Tires that are too worn cannot be recapped. And our recapping plant may become so busy that you will have to wait. Freuchen Tells How Danes Fight

Danish Explorer Gives Vivid Picture Of Economic Death Of Once Peaceful Land

Peter Freuchen, Danish explorer and underground leader, gave a vivid picture of the economic death of Denmark, once a prosperous peaceful little country jutting out into the North Sea but now laid waste by the Nazis and Danish saboteurs. He spoke to members of the Executive club and their wives at the monthly dinner meeting in The Castle Monday evening.

As king a prisoner, the courts and legislative bodies dissolved, anarchy reigns, and each Dane is his own governor, but the people are united in one common effort, to give as little aid and comfort to the Nazis as they can.

Freuchen, a giant of a man, who stands six feet five inches in height, was famous as an Arctic explorer prior to the war. After the Germans came he joined other Danes in the underground movement to harass the Nazis and destroy industry which the Nazis were using in the war effort. Today the Danes have accomplished that mission. There are no factories left in Denmark. The land has been laid waste and Denmark has virtually nothing left with which to begin economic revival after the war, except her faith and the hope of assistance from the allied nations.

Violated Treaty
When the Germans first came into Denmark in violation of a treaty the Germans had made years before, they infiltrated into the country disguised as tourists and business men. Then on an April morning in 1940, the Danes awoke to find men dressed in Nazi uniforms, pouring out of hotels, and ships anchored in the harbor. Some of the Danish fleet got away and went to Sweden and the ships and men were interned. Other units were sunk by their own officers.

With this show of force, the Nazis got permission to go through Denmark on the way to attack Norway. Then gradually, the Nazis cracked down and took complete control of everything. The high school students were the first to resist, and later everyone joined in the movement. At first they were just small gangs banded together, but later a Danish Freedom Council was formed. No one knows its leaders, or where or when it meets, but it has proven most effective in combating Nazi efforts to enslave the people.

Sabotage Difficult

Work of sabotage and escape from the Nazis has proven most difficult. The country is small, has no forests in which to hide, and is made up of a group of islands, making communication between them difficult, but in spite of all this, Mr. Freuchen stated, they have carried on and have done a wonderful job.

He told of meeting an American soldier in Tulsa the other day, whom he had helped to escape from the Nazis after he had been forced to bail out with the other members of his crew. This flier suffered a broken leg but with another, was spirited out of the country, while five others, who came down unscathed, were taken prisoner.

President Rush announced that the annual election would take place at the next meeting, the last of the season for the club, the nominating committee having put forward the names of Ernest Griner, William B. Howe, Glenn McCracken, O. E. Flora, Dr. J. J. McIlvaine, and John B. Offutt. The election committee is composed of Renben Elliott, Ernest L. Stutzinger, Kenneth Brown and Gerald Bell. This meeting will be on April 3 and the speaker will be Don Bolt. The speaker last evening was introduced by Numa Vidal.

Pennsylvania Will Stand With Byrnes, Says Gov. Martin

HARRISBURG, March 20.—(INS)—Gov. Edward Martin remained aloof today from the furor caused by the extension of the midnight curfew on New York night clubs and pledged unwavering support of the ban as long as War Mobilizer James E. Byrnes believed it was necessary.

Without referring to Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, Governor Martin said "The curfew was issued at the request of the federal government and Pennsylvania will stand with the government until the emergency has passed."

Some Peace Talk In Film Strike

HOLLYWOOD, March 20.—(INS)—Talk of peace was to the forefront today in Hollywood's film strike. Meetings between George Zinke, local representative of the War Labor Board, and strike leaders led to reports that a settlement of the film studio walkout that began a week ago yesterday was in the offing.

Herbert Sorrell, president of the conference of studio unions, lent a degree of substance to the reports that an assertion that action by the War Labor Board could end the walkout.

What science can do to bless you with a younger face

Think of the added beauty a more youthful face and throat can give! Then harken to this: Science . . . in the guise of ENDOCREME . . . can, for most women, contribute to this desirable result in a way formerly thought impossible. Many thousands are now finding that ENDOCREME actually helps to improve the skin itself, not just its transient, superficial "look." This is because ENDOCREME, alone, possesses ACTIVOL. The ACTIVOL in ENDOCREME . . . a laboratory counterpart of a natural, skin-vitalizing substance . . . is absorbed beneath the skin's surface to build cells, firm tissues. It thus helps the skin to become fresher, smoother, more alluringly "alive."

What bigger value can any woman between 22 and 70 ask for her cosmetic dollars. The great majority get big improvement in only 30 days.

OLD STAMPING GROUND

The news from Germany lately has an especial interest for County Commissioner Karl T. Rohrer. In 1919 he was a dispatch rider with the army of occupation, serving with the 308th engineers. As a dispatch rider he had to cover such points as Coblenz, Nieuweid and cities in between.

He had to cross the Remagen bridge in his duties and in the six months he spent in Germany with the army of occupation got to know the area well.

Many New Castle and Lawrence county men were in this district with the army of occupation. In addition to the 30th engineers, there was the 308th ammunition train, the 323rd and 324th field artillery, all of which had a lot of Lawrence county men on their rosters.

Some of the men who served in that area in 1919 have sons over there now and when the war is over father and son can exchange experiences in Germany.

Nine Hundred Take Tuberculin Tests

Tuberculosis Society Gives Tests At Senior High With Aid Of Students

During February and March 912 senior high school students were given the tuberculin test by Dr. Newmark and the school nurses, Miss Helen Wilson and Miss Emma Dadds.

The tests were furnished by the Lawrence County Tuberculosis society and all "positive reactors" are to be further examined by X-ray; all expenses will be paid by the local tuberculosis society.

A new record for speed in applying the tests was set up the first day when 500 patch tests were put on in 40 minutes. This speed was possible because of the fine assistance of some of the students from the health room. Those helping were Arline Andy, Lila Durgan, Thelma Kendall, Florence Turner, Joan Cox, Linda Chiers, Ann Fajumbo, Nancy Klee, Mary Waller, Janet Everett, Valentine Kolund, Marcia Bolland, Betty McGuire, Mary Helbley, Ann LaVecchia, Clare Wadlinger, Tresa Audino, Nancy DeLorenzo, Ann Green and Donna Mae Rasey. Several girls from study one helped in the preparations for the testing.

Each senior high student had the opportunity of taking the test. Forms were given to each to take home for the signature of parents wishing their boys or girls to have the test.

Final count shows that of the 912 tested, 79 showed positive reaction. These will be X-rayed within the next few days.

Many 'Firsts' Listed In Infantry Concert

Military Musicians To Appear Here Saturday Among Leaders In Civilian Life

Among the personnel of the Infantry Concert Group to appear in the Cathedral Saturday night under the joint sponsorship of the War Finance Committee and the Metropolitan Concert Guild are many "first" musicians.

In the violin section alone all but one of the infantry musicians were first violinists in various famous organizations such as the Philadelphia Orchestra, Chicago Civic Orchestra, Metropolitan Opera Orchestra of New York and the Pittsburgh Symphony.

The same holds true of the violas, cellos, clarinets, oboes and French horn. In all there are eighteen crack musicians in the Infantry Concert Group and their programs are said to be a delight.

The concert to be presented here Saturday night starts at eight o'clock. There is no admission or collections to concert is open to the public.

B'nai B'rith To Meet Wednesday

Regular meeting of the B'nai B'rith group will be held Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock, in the Cosmo club rooms, North Mercer street.

Philip Ellovich of Sharon will be the speaker. Refreshments will be served later.

Help Needed To Load Waste Paper In Collection Here On Saturday

Trucks and male adult volunteers are needed for the waste paper collection in New Castle and the adjoining townships on Saturday, March 24th. The Boy Scouts, who pick up the paper from the curbs are all set, as usual, but there is need for men to ride the trucks and also to load the paper.

Men who are willing to devote a few hours Saturday afternoon in a vital war cause are asked to call J. Fred Clarke, at 2756, up to Friday noon, and after that at 1903.

If you can spare a truck for a few hours, or you are willing to do a little work yourself, this is your chance. Help is needed badly.

It has been estimated that 80 per cent of American manufacturers depend upon agriculture.
